We have learned through the experiences and probings of our fathers and our forefathers:
Man has explored the depths of the earth and has journeyed to the moon. He has made great advances in the fields of medicine, communications, and industry.

But our elders have not achieved peace, ended poverty, or conquered prejudice. It is up to us to reach out and conquer prejudice.
It is up to us to reach out and conquer these problems.

In high school we gain the education which will help us solve these problems. Aspiring scientists learn proper lab techniques. Future economists and social workers gain insight into their fields in social studies classes.

IN SUPPORT of higher education, teachers took part in a state wide work stoppage.

TESTS REINFORCE learning for college bound upper classmen. Pupils record efforts after class study.

IN SEARCH of literary knowledge, enterprising student strives to fulfill the educational need of understanding through books.

PARTICIPATION IN the classical endeavors of music and displaying the appropriate finger dexterity, students expand their awareness of the world beyond that of bubble gum, blue jeans, and puppy love.

Math, Science Join to Further Progress

General Math, a two year course, covered a wide range of topics involving the general principles of arithmetic and modern math. For the college bound student, there was a series of graded courses, starting from algebra, continuing into geometry, and then into algebra-trig. If more study was desired, students could choose to take analysis. U.I.C.S.M., an experimental program co-ordinating with Indiana University, involved the same concepts as college prep math, with new ideas in personal experimentation of concepts.

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Lee Mann, Mr. John Jeffries, and Mr. Marshall Del Greco, the Math-Science Club planned programs to further interest in the mathematics concerning physics, chemistry and new scientific and new scientific and mathematical discovers.

MATHEMATICIAN, Mr. Marshall Del-Greco, demonstrates basic x-y theories

WIELDING protractors and compasses, novice mathematicians trace line struc-

PROPER STUDY habits are essential for the completion of homework. Debbie Bednar concentrates on solving intricate mathematical problems.

Fruitflie Traits

The Science Department offered a new course, Cell Biology, which dealt with the study of the cell. Aided by the use of audio visual materials, students learned the vital functions and makeup of the typical cell. Long term projects involved genetics, the study of heredity and how the traits are passed from one generation to another. Students experimented with fruit flies and raised corn, tobacco, sorghum, and soybean plants. The genetic makeup of the irradiated radish seeds and various plants were also observed.

Laboratory work was stressed in regular biology and B.S.C.S., as students experimented with examples of the many facets in this field. Anatomy students worked with dissected animals, learning the names and functions of muscles and bones in the body.

Junior Physicists groped the two fundamental concepts, matter and energy, as they studied the effects of electricity, light, sound, and balancing forces.

Accelerated Chemistry offered gifted sophomores an opportunity to explore ingredience of matter. With emphasis on laboratory experiments, young chemists probed into the elementary atomic theory, chemical bonds, the kenetic theory, and quantitive relationship.

Future Histor

Geography classes helped students achieve some knowledge concerning the physical elements of the world. Ways of life in other countries were also covered in this course.

World History classes dealt with developments of the world. First studied was the prehistoric era and the dawn of man, and continuing up to World Wars I and II.

In United States History, students learned about the growth of the American nation and the foundation of a democratic government.

Students furthered their acquaintance with a democratic government in Government class. An interest of current events developed with applications of the principles of an administration.

Information concerning labor unions, supply and demand, stocks and other factors of economy were accomplished in Economics. Students' participation was stressed by selecting and purchasing their own choices of stock.

An elective course, Far Eastern History, was offered for students further interested in affairs of countries. This course investigated the problems of Asian countries.

THIS BEING an election year, Mr. Joe Goodnight lectures on past presidential candidates in U.S. history course.

U.S. GOVERNMENT enabled seniors Jim McKay, Dale Karlen and Mike

Spirited Council Re-enforces GHS Rules

The Student Council began the year with an all school assembly, initiating the newly elected officers into their positions. Officers were celebrated at the Inaugural Ball, in December.

Sponsored by Mrs. Angela Penny, the club made significant advancements in student government. The continuation of the Student Court gave students a voice in enforcing school rules and discipline. Led by Chief Justice Chuck McCorkle, justices of each class met Tuesday and Thursday mornings to try cases of students, summoned by monitors. Representatives of homerooms collected money for the fund and were instrumental in canned good drives for the needy at Christmas and Easter.

Linguists Tangle Tongues Around Baffling Phrases

Mastery of language helps increase understanding while opening the door to the world of new ideas. Gavit High School offered a widerange program, including extensive English and foreign language program.

Chinese linguists learned the language by speaking almost entirely in Chinese while in class. College texts helped students to learn Chinese characters and grammar.

The French classes used the aural approach estensively through skits and films. Je Parle film test provided students with listening and speaking experiences.

To raise funds for scholarships to foreign language students, the French club presented two Kiwanis travelogues. Decorations, music, and costumes transformed the lobby into a Parisian avenue where refreshments and leather items were vended. An international party was given in spring.

COMPUTING oriental numbers, Nancy Davey, Sally Means and Bob Stivers

Latin pupils discovered that learning basic fundamentals of the language also increased understanding of English grammar.

Spanish classes employed texts and frequently performed skits to further student's speaking and grammatical skills. Mexican cuisie was tasted at La Cafe de Margarita in March.

To further cultural activities, Spanish Club members worked in order to send two Gladiators to South America for the summer. Projects included a paper drive, candy sale and the traditional dinner in March.

First year students of German learned basic grammar and vocabulary material to prepare literature reading in advanced classes. Third and fourth year enthusiasts concentrated on oral work and writing, supplemented by reading the novel Die Verschundene Miniatur.

The college preparatory program, with its emphasis on research techniques and independent study prepared the college-bound. Pupils found additional benefit from the senior reference course in college preparatory English 7.

To give talented students an in-depth exposure to literature and language, a complete course in accelerated English was offered for the first time. Courses were also available to non-college-bound students and to students with special problems. Developmental Reading could be elected to increase reading rate and comprehension.

"Stop the World . . . We Want to Get On!"

AMID a PILE of cover designs, color samples, and old yearbooks, Futura co-editors Bev Kush and Sue Levin discuss plans for 1969 Futura cover with advisor Miss Carol Ann Socks.

Influenced by their theme, "Stop the World . . . We Want to Get On!" the Futura staff introduced several innovations into the 1969 yearbook. For the first time the staff was headed by co-editors, Bev Kush and Sue Levin. The new 9 x 12 inch size highlighted the first all high school Futura. The thirty page middle school section was deleted in lieu of better coverage of high school activities. In an effort to show the relation of academics, activities, and the community, the basic plan for layout included three main sections rather than the previously used six. Informal page design and different type paper, 80 pound velvet enamel dull, added readability and interest to the book.

The 1968 Futura received an All-American Rating from the National Scholastic Press Association and a First Place Rating from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

Songsters Trace Music from Hebrew Era

Concert Choir students gained knowledge about the historical background of music as they prepared for the fall concert. They traced the development of song from the ancient Hebrew times to contemporary times using the text Sanctus. Students delivered narrations telling the characteristics and composers of each period of music history, and the choir sang a Sanctus composed in each period. In November the choir presented this program for music students at Ball State, Indiana State, and Indiana University. The choir presented concerts at the December Kiwanis Club meeting, the Woodmar Methodist Church, and the All Saints Church.

One of the highlights of the year was the presentation of Stabat Mater by the combined Girls Choir and Concert Choir girls on March 23 at the All Saints Church in Hammond. A string quartet accompanied the choir.

Girls Chorus and Boys Choir, along with Concert Choir and Girls Choir, took part in the Fall Concert, the Christmas Concert, and the Spring Concert.

Vocalists and Instrumentalists interested in advancing their music skills enrolled in Music Theory. In this class they learned the basics of musical harmony and music composition and gained experience in composing their own songs.

IN MUSIC Theory class, students with special interest and talent in music practice their own original compositions.

Dramatists In

Students in drama classes expressed their dramatic ability by working on original plays and skits. Study of interpretive reading, simple set construction, and also some knowledge of technical terms were combined with the plays and skits performed in the classroom. Construction and design of sets, backstage techniques, and fundamentals of one of the units of theater were promoted in stage craft classes.

Dramatists applied new knowledge and dramatic skills in the production of The Night of January 16th; an original production entitled Psychedelic Lollipop in which was displayed art, musical talent and dramatic interpretation; and Little Nell the Orphan Girl: or The Fight for a Woman's Honor, a melodrama from the gas light era.

Young Artists Explore Ancient Crafts

WINDING YARN, Nancy Patcher assists Sam Faen towards finishing his woven rug for Art Projects.

First and second semester artists were involved in such activities as carving, painting, drawing, sculpture, and ceramics. Further tasks included some work in lettering and graphics. Knowledge of shape, size, color, volume, movement and texture was a result of these achievements.

A third semester art course, Art Projects, allowed the student to explore areas he personally was interested in. This helped further develop the students' techniques and skills. As a whole, all pupils used their artistic talents by helping make decorations for choral concerts.

Art history, the only Art history course offered in the Hammond Public School System, covered the development of art through the ages, from the cave-man's art to modern man's art. The comparison and relationship of ancient art to new art was also studied.

ENGROSSED in their work, David Brown and Ray Homco express themselves in their masks created from heaps of papiermache.

ART instructor, Mr. Gilbertson, points out to senior students the importance of different types of block printing.

ARTISTS construct tribal-like papier-mache masks which reflected their creativity and imagination.

Future Homemakers Plan, Experiment

Foods I classes started with some study of basic cooking techniques and then turned towards preparation of breakfast foods. Luncheon, meat, and fish dishes were some of the flavorful concoctions of the Foods II classes.

The Home Management course prepared future homemakers how to manage on a budget. Fundamentals of interior decorating were also covered.

Seamstresses in first semester Clothing selected patterns, chose fabrics, and constructed a number of garments which included an A-line skirt, a simple blouse, and a dress or jumper. A dress with a hip seam, a blouse with sleeves, and a pleated skirt were some of the more difficult projects undertaken in Clothing II. Required outfits for Advanced Clothing were a coat, suit, prom or dressy dress, and a garment for someone other than themselves.

New Cinema Club Attempts Movie-Making

Films reeling through the halls, projectors clattering from room to room, and behind it all, the Gavit AV boys. It was their job to cater audio-visual aids to classes throughout the year.

Supervising these boys and assigning divers tasks from delivering to film editing was Mr. Harvey Zaun.

Additional interests in films gave birth to Gavit's own Cinema Club in early March. Mr. Donald Kopenc sponsored the organization. The students involved attempted to develop habits of analysis, understanding and appreciation of films.

Industrial Arts Department Gears Study

New machinery enhanced course offerings in the industrial arts department. Another off-set press was purchased for Graphic Arts, plastics and ceramics class received an injection molder, and a variety of hand tools were used in power mechanics.

Since Hammond is in the industrial heart of the nation, over 400 students experimented in graphic arts, general metal, electricity and electronics, power mechanics, mechanical drawing, general woodworking, and industrial plastics and ceramics, the latest addition to the department.

Ten members in Wood Club worked on useful woodwork projects such as flower brackets, magazine racks, book racks, gun racks, and wall racks. Most of the members had some experience in woodworking. The aims of the club were to point out the aspects of woodworking as a hobby, to explore a variety of tools and how to properly use them, and develop habits of careful planning and methodical procedure in their work. Mr. Erwin Brauer was sponsor of the Wood Club.

Junior Gridmen Sparkle in Season Wins

B-team hustlers finished first year of the Northwestern Alliance Conference against rival competitors of Hammond High, Morton and Clark.

Versatile junior letterman Craig Muir, Jack Winkley, and Joel Hochman gained valuable experience for next fall by playing in tough varsity competition. Displaying potential for next year, the B-team worked throughout the season under the direction of coach John Quinn.

The Clete-wheelers paraded in new purple and gold jerseys. Synthetic fiber knee pads protected the Glads as they challenged their opponents on the field.

Grooming for their high school seasons to come the Frosh Glads, led by coaches James Schilling and James Piggee, posted a 2-6 season. This included wins over Whiting and Roosevelt.

Preparing for the coming two seasons the B-team gridders compiled a 3-4 season.

B-Ballers Rate Sportsmanship Trophies

Barrelling into the season, a rugged Gavit sextet confiscated four victories, losing only two. The purple Glads lost the opener, a real cliff-hanger against a victorious Calumet team (54-52), but responded with a decisive defeat over T.F. North (89-72). The fighting Glads won three of the next four games beating Griffith, Hobart, Lew Wallace.

The Purple and Gold Glads came alive in the sectionals beating Highland and Whiting before bowing in the final game to a well experienced Munster ball club. Having lost to all the teams in the sectionals and only won one sectional game in the past, Gavit was the underdog. The Glads played a hard fought game and ran out of steam as clock showed Munster 91 and Gavit 81, with no minutes and seconds left on the clock. Settling for the runner-up trophy, the Gladiators were given the game basketball endorsed with all the players names and Tournament Sportsmanship trophy.

At regular meetings, the girls participated in field hockey, basketball, and volleyball, played in tournaments against other GAA Clubs and placed sixth among forty-four other schools in the state bowling meet. As gymnastics enthusiasts, girls entered district meets and a state meet in March, then sponsored District and state track meets.

The entire high school was invited to attend the Gym Jam event, which included such sports as basketball, badmitten, dancing and volleyball. Club members and mothers banqueted in the spring.

Energetic Glads Lead Teams to Victories

Gavit cheerleaders attended Smith-Walbridge summer camp along with cheerleaders from throughout the United States. Campers mastered tumbling techniques, new chants, and pom-pom routines. The girls were awarded two first place ribbons, one second place, and one third place ribbon in camp contests.

With new routines, the girls led football and basketball fans in cheering the teams on to victories. First to support the wrestling team, the spirited girls journeyed with the grapplers to sectional tournaments and state competition in Indianapolis. Miss Sandra Osteen sponsored and guided the girls in their activities.

The romantic music of Buddy Presner's Orchestra filled the ballroom as couples swayed into the midnight coronation hour. Under an archway ladened with roses, Linn Knutson received her crown and bouquet honoring her as queen. A supper celebration followed the coronation announcement of Queen Linn and her court, Cheryl Werth, Debbie Kopaz, Linda Callahan, Sue Daugherty and Sara Miller.

JUNIORS STOP for books and conversation before rushing to their next class.

Sophs Prepare to Assume Upperclass Status

To celebrate football homecoming, sophomores decorated a car themed "Draft the Senators," which featured a draft beer mug on the roof of the car.

Sophomores of good standing in the class were permitted to order class jerseys in the fall of '68 and class rings during the spring of '69.

Preparing for the prom next year, prom committee chairmen and members were appointed. Committees were directed under the supervision of Pat Pappas, general prom chairman.

Officers leading the class of '71 were Chris Doloszycki, president; Bonnie Sutton, vice-president; Pat Pappas, secretary; and Janice Wargo, treasurer. Sponsors were Mrs. Phillis Prater and Mr. Kenneth Wysocki.

IN MEMORIAM

Robert Paulik

Died February 28, 1969

SURROUNDED by friends sophomore Patty McLean stares triumphantly at empty foodtray as Allyson Shelbourne exclaims, "THEY said it couldn't be done, but you finished it."

Freshman Sell Lightbulbs; Build Treasury

At the start of the 68-69 school, Freshmen gained extra money for class activities by finishing their light bulb sale, continued from the previous year. Additional sales of chocolate candy bars also helped the class treasury grow.

For participation in football homecoming, Freshmen constructed and entered a car-float for the homecoming parade. The float was named second best in its class.

Freshmen experienced how to use voting machines while voting for class officers. Officers elected were Ronald Jones, president; Trudy Fowdey, vice president; Athene Pappas, secretary; and Rhonda Rosinski, treasurer.

STUDIOUS Freshmen begin high school with good study habits.

Modern Facilities House Peak Enrollment

The 1968-1969 school year opened with a total of 2,400 students and a teaching staff of 115. The goals were program expansion and fulfillment. The Para Professionals Program was furthered with the institution of new teachers and courses to deal with special education in reading.

Administration, faculty, and students worked together to promote better understanding between the community and the school.

Striving to keep the high levels of education, teachers and custodians supported the state work stoppage in March to protest a lesser appropriation to school funds in the new state education bill.

AMID MOUNTAIN of supplies, exhausted CO-EDITORS of the '69 Futura, Bev Kush and Sue Levin quip cliché and a good time was had by all as a last resort picture caption.

Go Ahead and Use It; No One Will Ever Know!!

Having descended into the catacombs of room 217 for the last time, we look around at the broken typewriters, torn layout sheets, old pictures and messy files, hoping our efforts were not in vain. In two hundred pages we tried to recapture the Gavit student body participation in their roles as students, as individuals and as community citizens.

The production of a yearbook involve the knowledge, skill, dedication and cooperation of all staff members. Many thanks go to the staff for their hard work and long hours. Also we would like to thank Miss Carol Ann Socks, our advisor. Without her many ideas and gentle reminders of our deadline, the book would have never gone to print.

Official photographers for the 1969 Futura was Walinger Studios, Inc., Chicago. DeLaney Printing Company of Hammond printed the book on Warrens 80 pound enamel dull paper, and set the body copy, headlines and opening copy in Garamond type of 18, 12 and 8 point sizes. Covers were purchased from S.K. Smith of Chicago.

Well it's all over now. We're glad the work is done, but sorry to see the good times go. To next year's staff all we can say is Good Luck.

The editors,
Bev & Sue
